

Discussion Questions for Quick Start Guide: Public Financial Disclosure

You can use these questions alone, or with colleagues to reflect upon the information provided in the Quick Start Guide. See the resources linked on this page for more information and to continue your development as a public financial disclosure reviewer.

1. What sources of information do you use to understand the duties and responsibilities of a filer to allow you to conduct a conflicts of interest review? Do you enlist the help of anyone else in the agency?
2. How often do you use the two resources (Public Financial Disclosure Guide and Analyzing Conflicts of Interest Collection)? What do you find to be the most useful portions of these resources?
3. How do you know when to ask a filer about a discrepancy between a current report and a previous filing?
4. How does your agency timely ensure we are making public financial disclosure reports publicly available?
5. Who, outside of our agency, might be interested in the contents of the public financial disclosure reports we review and certify? How can we help ensure they know we are diligently reviewing to prevent conflicts of interest?
